The Impact of Unemployment in my Community

Good day, honourable teachers, fellow learners, and members of our community.

Today, I want to speak about a problem that touches almost every home in eDumbe: unemployment. Unemployment means many young people finish school but have no job, no income, and no clear future. This affects us all.

Unemployment leads to poverty. When young people do not work, families struggle to buy food, pay school fees, or get transport. For example, many learners depend on a parent’s grant or piece jobs to survive.

It causes crime and hopelessness. When people are idle for a long time, some turn to drugs, theft, or dangerous activities just to survive. This makes our community unsafe for everyone.

Unemployment wastes talent. Many of you are good at maths, sewing, mechanics, or computers, but without opportunities, those skills are not used. That is a loss for all of us.

However , there is hope. We can change this by learning new skills, applying for TVET colleges, or joining youth programmes like the National Youth Service and YES. We can also start small projects such as gardening, baking, or cellphone repairs.

In conclusion, unemployment is serious, but it does not have to define our future. If we work together, learn skills, and use the opportunities around us, we can build a better eDumbe. Let us not wait for jobs. Let us create them. Thank you.
