Fikile Mkhize 0210210785080

0781087624

14 July 2026

READ/VIEW,ANALYSE AND RESPOND TO A VARIETY OF TEXTS

US119469

Question 1

1. Heading/Title: `RECORDING INFORMATION` - shows the main topic of the section

2. Numbering/Listing: `I. Summaries, II. Paraphrasing, III. Annotations...` - organizes information in order

3. Bold text: Words like Summaries,Paraphrasing, Highlighting-to emphasize key terms

4. Visual aids / Graphics: The picture of a pen and paper + the Pie chart: First Language Distribution- to illustrate concepts

5. References/Citations:`Ref: Encarta Encyclopaedia: English (North America)` and `SOURCE: http://...` - to show where information came from

Question 3

1.Read and understand the text.

2.Find the relevant ideas in the text.Mark them in some way-write them down,take notes,underline them or highlight them.

3.Make sure you identify the meaning relationships between the words/ideas-use colour's or numbers.

4.Read what you have marked very carefully.

5.Organise the information you have.You could give all similar ideas in different texts the same number or letter or color.

6.Transfere all the information on to one piece of paler.Write down all similar information together.

7.Paraphrase and summarize as necessary.

8.Chexk your notes with your original texts for accuracy and relevance.

9.Combine your notes into one continous text.

10.Check your work.

a)Make sure your purpose is clear.

b)Make sure the language us correct.

Fikile Mkhize 0210210785080

c)Make sure the style is your own.

d)Remember to acknowledge other people's work.

Question 4

a) 1. First person: Uses "I, we, my". Author is part of the story.

Example: "I believe note-taking is important because it helped me pass."

2. Second person: Uses "you, your". Author speaks directly to the reader.

Example: "When you highlight text, make sure the book belongs to you."

3. Third person: Uses "he, she, they, it". Author is outside the story and reports facts.

Example: "Men in Hollywood are known to die young."

b)Evidence cited must be relevant because:

1. It supports and strengthens your argument/position.

2. Irrelevant evidence confuses the reader and weakens your point.

3. It shows you understand the topic and have done proper research, making your writing more credible.

Question 5

I. Impact of author's view on reader

The author's view is gossipy and sensational. It makes the reader focus on celebrity scandals and shifts blame to "the other man". It may make readers curious, judgmental, or entertained, but not take the issue seriously.

II.Yes, it is relevant.The article is about Hollywood celebrities who cheated. The author lists names like Ashton Kutcher, Tiger Woods, Kristen Stewart and provides a source link to Huffington Post. This evidence directly supports the claim about cheating scandals in Hollywood.

III.The target audience is general readers of gossip/entertainment news and celebrity magazines. People interested in Hollywood, pop culture, and scandal stories. The informal tone and celebrity names show this.

Question 6

Production techniques are methods used to create and present information visually to help readers

Fikile Mkhize 0210210785080

understand and respond to texts.

Examples of visuals used when reading/viewing/analysing texts:

1. Graphs and Charts: e.g. Pie charts, Bar graphs - to show numerical data like the "First Language Distribution"

2. Images/Photographs/Illustrations: e.g. The picture of pen and paper - to make text more interesting and explain ideas

3. Diagrams and Flowcharts: To show processes or steps

4. Tables: To organize and compare information clearly

5. Headings and Bold text: To structure information and show importance

6. Videos and Animations: To demonstrate concepts when reading digital texts